BEFORE THE EVENT.....

- 1 If you are hiring a projector television for the event, try to obtain the largest screen that will comfortably suit your venue.
- 2 Arrange for the ticket sellers and pay-out clerks to be visible to everyone in the room.
- 3 Have a good Master of Ceremonies. Ideally this should be somebody that is a member of the organisation, is known to all the other members and is 'a bit of a character'!
- 4 Select tickets sellers who not only do their job efficiently but have plenty of personality to encourage the punters to bet!
- 5 Try to obtain sponsorship from local businesses, breweries etc to offset the cost of the racenight.
- 6 Do remember to give the ticket sellers and pay-out clerks plenty of change for the float.

THE BIG EVENT

- 1 Make sure that the Master of Ceremonies lets the punters know the cost of the unit stake for the betting (£1 or 50p we suggest).
- 2 Make sure that everyone knows who is selling the tickets and how you are going to arrange the payout.
- 3 Make sure that everyone has a programme.
- 4 At the start of each race, your MC reads out the names of the horses. Your MC can also let everyone know who the outsiders and favourites are!
- 5 Setting up the tote. It is important to make sure that betting is handled simply and efficiently. You will need four members seated at a table to sell Tote tickets on each race. Each ticket seller can handle tickets for two horses. There will be a separate pay-out point for the winning horse. A percentage is taken of all the bets for your organisation's funds and the remainder divided equally between those who bet on the winning horse. As soon as the race is over, the pay-out dividend is announced and the lucky punters collect their winnings from the pay-out point.

6 Get the MC to mention whether the going is firm, overcast or anything fictitious, as it helps give the event a 'live' feel!

7 When all of the betting on each race has been completed, the Tote must be closed and a member of the audience makes a selection from the available races. The seal is then broken in front of the audience and handed to the video operator.

8 While the race is on, your pay-out clerks calculate the winnings, using the pay-out calculator supplied.

9 When pay-outs are announced, round it to the nearest 10p, as this makes it easier for your pay-out clerk and you won't run out of change!

10 Allow 10 to 20 minutes until the next race. This avoids the rush and boosts bar sales (just like the real thing)!

11 At the end of the evening remember to thank those who have assisted, including the ticket sellers, pay-out clerks and the person working the lights!!

HAVE FUN!!

HOW A RACE NIGHT WORKS

A race night is a fantastic way to raise funds for your club, charity, school or society.

There are a few things that you need to do to make your race night a success. It depends upon your objectives for the race night, but most fund raising race night events are run to make the most money.

For tips on making the most money please see our how to make the most money tips. This gives tips for making money before and during the race night.

There are several jobs that will need to be done before and during the race night.

Before your race night you will need to organise the following.

Race Night Promotions Manager - Someone to put up race night posters, speak with local companies to get prizes and sponsorship for the race night. Sell the advanced race night programmes.

Race Night Event Manager - Someone to sort out the venue for the race night, Master of ceremonies and projector.

During the race night you will need the following.

A Race Night Master of Ceremonies - You can hire an MC but the local character of the club can usually do a good job and this will help the race night run at a profit.

Race Night Tote Ticket Sellers - These are the people who take the race night wagers. As our race night betting uses real betting slips, just like the real thing, it's very quick to operate and it means that any tote seller can take any race night wager.

Race Night Tote Ticket Payout - This is the person who is responsible for paying out the race night winners. Depending upon the size of your race night this can be covered by the seller.

Projectionist - Someone to be in charge of the displaying of the race night films and the sound system.

Race Night Support Staff - People to help generally on the day of the race night. There may also be a requirement for bar staff, catering staff, doorman, someone to sell race night programmes, raffle tickets and cleaners!

As an organisation, you decide on the size of each race night bet. This can be anything you like but we recommend either 50p or £1.00. You then decide how much of the race night tote the charity will retain for their funds - we recommend between 40% and 60%.

Once you have made all of these decisions, you need to open the race night tote for the first race. Punters may place as many bets on as many horses as they wish in the following race. When all bets have been placed the race night tote is closed. This is to comply with the current legislation. Once the race night tote is closed the race is selected and displayed. We supply payout tabulators that make the working out of the race night payout very easy.

That's about it! Just repeat the above for all of your race night races and enjoy the evening!

HOW MUCH WILL WE MAKE?

This is a question we are always asked and it's a tough one to answer. There are a lot of variables, the biggest one is how much time are you prepared to invest to make the race night a success. But to give you an idea on the earning capability of an event, let's look at a typical event with twenty race night guests:-

Sell race night admission tickets. $20 \times \text{£}1.00 = \text{£}20.00$

Find race night sponsors for each race. $8 \times \text{£}10 = \text{£}80.00$

Sell the race night horses Races $8 \times$ Horses $8 = 64 \times \text{£}2 = \text{£}128.00$

Race night betting on each race $20 \times 8 \times 0.3 = \text{£}48.00$

Total Race Night Income from 20 clients = £276.00

You can flex these numbers up and down depending upon your number of clients and the amount of race night sponsorship you can get. But this just shows that you can make money with very few clients.

The most important thing with any race night is to get the maximum number of people to the race night. The more guests the more you can make from everything!

Good luck!

GOOD IDEAS FOR ADDITIONAL GAMES

You may also wish to have additional race night games taking place on the night. Here are three that we can recommend.

1 Race Night - Winner from Loser

This must be mentioned at the very start of your race night event before the start of the first race.

After each race, all of the punters holding winning tickets take them to the pay-out point to receive their race night winnings. All of the losers however, must write their name on the back of the race night ticket and put it into a cardboard box (you could position this near the race night ticket sellers).

Before the last race of the race night takes place, a draw is made and 8 tickets drawn out of the cardboard box. Those whose names are on the back of the tickets are given a horse in that order. These are read out over the microphone so that all of the punters know who the lucky 8 people are who have a horse in the last race of your race night.

The race is run and the winner is declared. This person will receive a prize (either cash or a bottle of drink!) It's up to you!

The advantage of this great race night game, is that it not only keeps people interested until the end of the race night, but it keeps the floor clean of all used race night betting slips and gives the losers an opportunity to win a race night prize.

2 Race Night - Horse Auction

Select a couple of races during the race night i.e. the fourth and the last and hold a race night auction. Everyone at the race night can bid for whichever horse they like and the highest race night bidder takes the horse. After the 8 race night horses have been auctioned, your organisation deducts a percentage i.e. 25%. The race is run and the balance is paid to the winning owner.

3 Race Night - The Raffle Race

This requires the audience to buy tickets for a 'Star Prize'. From the tickets sold, 8 are drawn out at random and are awarded a horse in the next race. Whoever owns a winner, then receives a race night prize.

OTHER MONEY MAKING IDEAS

1 Race Night - Race Sponsorship

You can sell race night - race sponsorship for, say, £10. This could be a pub, restaurant or a local business.

2 Selling Race Night Programmes

You can sell race night programmes on the evening to generate more race night revenue.

3 Race Night - Horse Sales

Horses can be bought at the race night. After the race night Tote is closed, 8 people are welcome to come and buy the horse from the MC for £1 each. The winner receives £5 and £3 goes towards the funds. You must sell all 8 horses to justify this.

4 Race Night - Sundry Raffles and Tombolas

In between races offers an ideal opportunity for other activities such as tombolas and raffles. These can contribute to the fun and profit of the race night!

5 Race Night - Bar and Drink Sales

The race night bar will have a busy time and, in some instances, the major reason for a race night is to boost bar sales.

LEGISLATION AND YOUR RACE NIGHT

Race nights

This fact sheet covers some of the usual questions asked about race nights. It is not a definitive description of all the rules and regulations that apply to race nights. Reference should be made to the Lotteries and Amusements Act 1976 for precise details of the law.

Definition of a race night

Race nights are events in which participants stake money on the outcome of recorded races and where the selection is totally dependent on chance and where no "odds" or "form" are available to assist the selection.

Proceeds go to purposes of the organisation or a charitable purpose but are not for private gain or commercial purposes.

How to run a Race night

It is usual to run a race night as an amusement with prizes under section 15 of the Lotteries and Amusement Act 1976.

The race night must not be the sole attraction and must be part of an exempt entertainment such as a bazaar, sales of work, fete, dinner dance, sporting events or similar gatherings.

There are certain conditions set out in section 15, which must be observed when promoting and conducting a race night as an 'amusement with prizes at an exempt entertainment'. These are listed below.

The race night must not be the only, or only substantial, inducements to persons to attend the entertainment.

The whole proceeds of the entertainment, after deducting the expenses of the entertainment, must be devoted to purposes other than private gain.

The hire of any machinery to run the race night can be defrayed from the proceeds but not if it is made in some way dependent upon the extent to which the equipment is used. For instance profit sharing arrangements between equipment manufactures, hirers and promoters would not be allowed.

Registration requirements

There are no registration requirements.
